Aware That the Future Is Here, Princetonians Are Turning to Solar Energy for Heat

When spring comes, winter is only nine months away.

For three Princeton firms now entering the burgeoning solar energy field, such a statement is not cynicism but represents a realistic approach to the next round of severe cold weather, higher fuel prices and recurrent energy crises As the sun climbs higher in the sky and the nation awaits he unveiling of President Carter's energy proposals on April 20, Princeton Energy Group, Williamson Construction and Ruhl Construction are prepared to offer solar consultation, installation and construction as part of an industry that is expected to grow to $1.3 billion by 1985

To most people, the very idea of using the rays of the sun as a source of power is confused by myth and misconception. However, there is no doubt in the minds of the men who head these firms that certain applications are technologically and economically feasible right now, and that Princeton, as an affluent center of education, is an ideal place in which solar energy use should flourish. Despite growing public awareness, just last week, the Second Annual New Jersey Energy & Conservation Conference & Exposition in Cherry Hill gave the title, "Solar and Other 'Exotics' – How Well Can They Work?" to a workshop on solar, wind and geothermal energy sources.

Solar energy applications for home and business use involve nothing more exotic than arranging ordinary building and plumbing materials in such a way as to maximize the power in the rays of the sun as they fall on the earth. The boy scout lighting a fire with the aid of a magnifying glass, the heat waves coming off a black-topped parking lot, which have been known. to fry eggs in mid-summer, and the heat that builds up in a closed parked car in all seasons are commonplace instances of the power of the sun

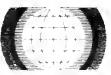

In harnessing this power to domestic uses. solar energy systems take advantage of these Radiation is simple principles. absorbed in a collector, placed in storage (with or without the assistance of a transfer medium) and distributed to the point of use (the living space) The performance of each operation is maintained and monitored by either automatic or manual controls, and an auxiliary heater provides backup for the during prolonged cloudy times periods when the solar system is unable to deliver sufficient heat.

Princeton's first solar house is the home at the end of Pine Street which architect Douglas Kelbaugh designed for himself and his wife. Featured on two house tours this winter, it is an example of the passive type of solar energy system

MEDVIN HOPES TO RUN In Borough. The winter is past, the deadline for filing for the June 7 primaries is April 28, and the time for speculation about who's going to run for office is at hand.

In the Borough, Council member Leona Medvin said this week:

"I would be pleased to run on the Democratic ticket if I municipal committee.

Last fall, Mrs. Medvin ran successfully as an Indepen-dent with Republican endorsement, for the one year remaining in the three-year-term of her late husband, Medvin. Murray Democrats ran Marvin Trotman.

In the Township, incumbent Republican Elizabeth Hutter says that she has not yet decided whether to run for a second term.

HOW IT WORKS: The drawing on the left shows a typical solar domestic hot water system. Light energy is absorbed in the south-facing rooftop collector and is transferred to heat energy in the storage tank via a circulating antifreeze solution. Water that is used for washing is in effect pre-heated by circulating through a second coil in the hot water in the storage lank before it is drawn off through the conventional hot water heater. On the right, the same system provides warm air in the living room registers by the same means. Drawings are by the National Solar Heating and Cooling Information Center in Rockville, Md.

> Solar Collectors in Use. Williamson Construction of 195 Nassau Street, which has been for 10 years in the general construction business and is now specializing in renovations, roofing and solar installations, is currently up-grading a building at 184 Witherspoon Street Dating back to the 1800's and once the all-black elementary school which Paul Robeson and others attended in the days Princeton segregated, the building had become a run-down rooming

W. Robert Shaw and Alan Zar, principals of Williamson Construction, are converting it into 12 one-room efficiency apartments. the As distributors here of Sunstream Solar Domestic Hot Water Systems, they plan to install rooftop solar collectors and an extra-large insulated heat exchanger and storage tank in the basement which would supply 70 to 80 percent of the tenants' hot water needs. The building has an east-west orientation and the roof not much pitch, but Mr. Zar is confident of the flexibility of the collectors he sells to accomodate to this or any other situation.

Providing solar space heat as well as hot water in a house involves using more rooftop collectors and bigger storage medium. Ruhl Construction of 40 Witherspoon Street plans to build a solar house on speculation in the Township by autumn. Ruhl Heffner, president, an engineering graduate of Lehigh University, became associated with a father-son team manufac-turing solar collectors in Trenton in the course of remodeling, restoring and constructing vacation homes and townhouses in Penn-

Although he has advertised providing solar heat for existing homes, Mr. Heffner would prefer to build a solar house from scratch, incorporating the collectors as an integral part of the design. He feels that architects avoid building solar houses because the technology imposes restrictions on their aesthetics, and that too often the solar technology comes first with the house built around it, thus giving solar houses a harsh, unnatural look. He would like to experiment with different style houses and to build homes that 'architecturally pleasing" and have the interior environmental control that he feels is only possible with an active system.

Concern for the Environment. Princeton Energy Group, 245 Nassau Street, addresses itself in a larger way to the whole question of energy sources and conservation. Founded this past

Solar Heating as an Inflation Hedge

Assume that an individual whose income tax bracket is 48 percent wants to build a $100,000 house and has received financing at 9 percent for the next 25 years. Estimating that the cost of operating a conventional heating system could amount to $1,000 per year at today's prices, he decides to add a solar system to heat domestic hot water and provide space heat. Installation of the system will add $10,000 to the cost of his house and can be expected to reduce his fuel bill by at least 65 percent.

Ruhl Heffner of Ruhl Construction calculates that the interest on the extra $10,000 to add the solar system is $900 a year. But against that debit, the homeowner can credit his fuel savings of $650 a year (65 percent of $1,000) and an additional $430 on his income tax (48 percent times $900) because mortgage interest is tax deductible. These two credits subtracted from $900 leave him with a $180 positive cash flow, says Mr. Heffner, an amount that will recur annually and would not have been available at all if the house had not been built as a solar house.

In addition, Mr. Heffaer says, a solar house with a proven performance record can be expected to appreciate at a higher rate than can conventionally beated houses as the demand for energy-efficient homes, or homes that have any heat at all, in the middle of energy crises, increases. Mr. Heffner also points out that the above figures are calculated at today's fuel prices which are certain to escalate.

To take another example, the deluxe model solar hot water heating system offered by Williamson Construction has a price tag of $1,400 installed and should give 70-80 percent immediate saving on fuel. If that saving cuts the fuel bill by $20 a month, the homeowner has a tax free annual dividend of $240 he didn't spend. If he puts the $1,400 in a 71/2 percent savings account instead, he will earn $105 annual dividend on which he has to pay an income tax at his regular rate.

Mayor Cawley had asked the question a week ago, in advance of a meeting last Wednesday with representatives of the Delaware Valley Regional Planning Commission, elected officials of Borough and Township and members of Princeton's planning board. Staff members of various state agencies also attended.

Mayor Cawley and Township Committee member Elizabeth Hutter, both expressed guarded confidence in the DVRPC and the role it will -- or "must," under Federal law? - play in the growth of the area.

Three of Five Residents of State Would Back End of Income Tax When It Is Due for Renewal

A large majority of New tax package are widely Schulman said that, "The when the law comes up for renewal in June, 1978, according to the latest Eagleton Poll. The statewide survey, conducted by the Eagleton Institute of Politics at Rutgers University, finds that 59 percent believe the tax program should be allowed to lapse, while only 28 percent favor its extension.

When asked whether they favor immediate repeal, one out of two respondents - 50 percent—said "yes."

Opposition to renewal is broadly based. Majorities of Democrats, Republicans, and independents as well as persons in all income categories want the measure rejected.

Disapproval of the tax package is centered almost exclusively on its provision for two-to-two-and-one-half percent graduated income tax. Only 29 percent support this levy, while 64 percent are

In contrast to the negative sentiment toward the income tax alone, a majority of respondents indicate support for the overall tax package when asked to consider all the program's provisions together -- rebates, school aid, and spending ceilings as well as the income tax. Fifty-six percent favor the total package, while 37 percent are opposed

Eagleton Poll analyst Mark

Jerseyans believe the supported. A provision for combination of some highly partial property tax relief is popular provisions, such as state income tax package extremely popular, with 84 property tax relief, with the when the law comes up for percent approving. Increased very unpopular income tax renewal in June, 1978, actaged to local schools is still adds up to a strong public endered by 75 percent. The decire to scuttle the

Mr. Schulman added that Gordon Ave. the seeming contradiction between approval of the overall package and opposition to its extension may result from the income tax provision alone now being uppermost in people's minds. "For the past several months, New Jerseyans have been stung by the income tax being withheld from their paychecks. Dislike of the tax seems to affect the way they feel about the entire package. The property tax rebates, which will be in hand in April, may well serve as a reminder the program's popular provisions.

The analyst cautioned that, "Taxes of any kind are rarely welcomed." Past Eagleton surveys have found that, among unpopular choices, an income tax which includes partial property tax relief is preferred to sales tax increases without property tax reductions. A May, 1976, poll found 55 percent favored the income tax coupled with property tax reductions, while 39 percent approved an increase in the sales tax without lowered property taxes. The 1976 survey was taken before passage of the income tax package.

CONFERENCE ON HOUSE RESTORATION: Helen D. Hamilton, Conference Chairman, and Joseph J. Felcone, Trustee of the Historical Society of Princeton, planning the Preservation Conference on Architecture and Restoration of Old Houses in New Jersey, to be held Saturday, April 23.

CONFERENCE PLANNED On Old House Restoration architecture restoration of old houses will be the theme of an all-day conference sponsored by the Historical Society of Princeton Saturday, April 23. Four prominent authorities on preservation will detail insights into the techniques of restoration. To begin the program William B. Bassett, an architectural historian and author of the "Historic American Buildings Survey Catalog of New Jersey Architecture," will discuss

"Styles of New Jersey Architecture." Constance M.
Greilf will speak on "How to Research an Old House" by outlining the steps to take in establishing a date for a building. Mrs. Greilf is the principal in the consulting firm, Heritage Studies, in Princeton.

The third speaker will be Charles Tichy, a restoration architect with the New Jersey Historic Sites Section, who will treat the topic "Con-struction of Old Houses." Lastly John Milner, A.I.A., will get into the specifies of "Restoration of Old Houses." Currently president of National Heritage, his architectural firm is in West Chester, Pennsylvania, Mr. Milner has written and lec-chitectural restoration.

After the conference, which is to be held in the Whig Hall on the Princeton University campus, tea will be served at Maclean House (1754), formerly the residence of the University Presidents and now the office of the Alumni Association.

Tickets for the all-day conference are $20 each which includes the registration fee, a box lunch, and tea. To obtain a reservation write Conference, Preservation Historical Society of Princeton, 158 Nassau Street, Princeton, N.J. 08540 or call so early registration is en-

4-Year-Olds Discuss Problems of Moon Trail While ETS Studies Their Thought Process

HOW CHILDREN LEARN: A teacher working with preschoolers at the nurs school operated by Educational Testing Service, where researchers are study how young children learn.

What would you think of a capability for self-expression four-year old discussing the difficulties of moon travel?

Impossible? Not according to Dr. Irving Sigel, director of Educational Testing Service's (ETS) Child Care Research Center, Dr. Sigel, a developmental psychologist recognized for his work with preschoolers, and co-workers Rodney Cocking and Ruth Saunders, are conducting research on children's behavior at the ETS-operated nursery school on Rosedale Road, in an effort to uncover patterns of children's thought processes.

'Children have their own ideas about the moon and other topics," says Sigel. other topics," says Sigel. "And while their conception may not be the same as ours they should be listened to."

Dr. Sigel explains that his program at ETS is based on the assumption that children have substantial knowledge of what goes on around them. HARDY AZALEAS

in bud in bloom

The winter of '77 has been very hard on many plants, including field grown azaleas from here to Georgia. We do have a supply of hardy varieties that were stored in a cool green house during the winter and escaped damage. Because Spring arrives sooner in a greenhouse these plants will bloom earlier than normal - many just in time for Easter

"In our discussions with the children," says Sigel, "we talk about the workings of everyday occurrences. For example, the children are making sandwiches. The teacher asks; What is a sandwich?; How do you know when you have a sandwich?; etc. From there the teacher can go on to ask: When is the same collection of materials not a sandwich?; If you have two pieces of bread and some meat, is that always a san-dwich?"

"The important point here," explains Sigel, "is that the teacher's queries are not just off-hand nor are they just asked and the answers left as

Selection Process 'Farcical.'

To the Editor of Town Topics: Following is the text of an open letter the Joint Com-mission on Civil Rights has sent to Dietrich Meyerhofer, President of the Princeton Regional School Board:

The Joint Commission on Civil Rights, at their regularly scheduled monthly meeting of March 22, 1977, decided to forward to the Board the following regarding the selection of a superintendent.

The selection process should have been open, was not, and should be condemned.

Since the selection process was not open, the Board has not overcome the presumption that their decision was improperly based on considerations of sex and race, and as a consequence Dr. Francis was not chosen.

The procedure used was farcical and the seven finalists should have gone before the 35-member selection team and not the final two.

"MR, PRESIDENT..."

BC, Single Quotes. Working in Washington, it is interesting to watch the overwhelmingly Democratic House of Representatives, which was trained and conditioned in opposition to a Republican President of the same party. It is not so comfortable a position for the Democrats

The responsibility for what happens is clear. There is no one to blame for mistakes and omissions, when one party has a huge majority in both Houses and holds the Presidency, too.

The questions the public is asking pile up. Are we going to get a real energy program? A good strip mining bill?

Any sound health insurance plan, with control of fraud and the control of the plant and the control of the control of abuse? Will the redoubtable chairman of Government Operations, Rep. Jack Brooks (Dem. of Texas), relinquish his control of governmental reorganization, even to the President of his own party?

What's Best for All. The Speaker said he wanted to help President Carter be "the best President" the country every had, and I think that all of us-Democrats and Republicans alike-want the same thing because that would mean "the best" for the country. It is only in our lighter moments (and these are essential occasionally) that we Republicans can watch the adjustments the House majority has to make with a certain amused detachment.

If I were a powerful Democrat, however, with some hope of being heard by the President, there are three or four points I would like to bring to his attention: the oath of office; the appointment of Attorney General Bell; the $50 rebate; and the $2 million sent by plane to Zaire in the week ending March 19th.

The inaugural is a ceremony of great importance in our history, it embodies, in its ritualization of the transfer of power by the will of the people, elements that are essential to our system. It belongs to the whole people and one should not seek to set a personal stamp upon it.

In taking the oath of office, one is not only an individualone is the 39th President of the United States of America. The names given in baptism-"l, James Earl Carter..."-should have been used. As for the walk down the Avenue, the sweatered TV chat-why not?-(although a Bound Brook high school student who came to see me objected that "he didn't look like a President.") in dealing It is only moments that are part of our national heritage that I think any President must subordinate his style and personality to the solemnity of the occasion.

Appointment Bell Questioned. The appointment of Attorney General Bell has been objected to by a number of people for a variety of reasons, many of them related to civil rights. I have not followed Mr. Bell's record very closely, but I worked in civil rights myself and I know that it took courage 20 years ago to stand up for what is considered normal nowadays.

My own objection is solely on the basis of the long friendship-and the closeness of that friendship-between the two men. I think such an appointment would have been perfectly acceptable in some other Department. But an independent judiciary, together with a free press and the Constitution itself, is an indispensable bulwark of our system and should be divorced from such a close, personal relationship.

The $50 rebate to taxpayers was, in the opinion of many economists, an absurdity. (I am not speaking of the $50 that went to those too poor to pay any taxes—people on Social the gesture raised the deficit by over $8 billion of lost revenue, without counting the cost of sending checks for $10 or $20 or even $5 to those with incomes just under the $30,000 limit.

In a book to be published in April by the University of Chicago Press called "The Suburban Environment; Sweden and the United States," David Popence of 150. Loomis Court takes a look at the quality olf life in Levittown, Pa., and Vallingby, Sweden, and finds the latter a more intelligent solution to the problems and challenges of suburban life.

Mr. Popenoe is critical of the sprawl of single family homes on sizeable lots strung out in rows and facing streets which become alternately playgrounds for children and conduits for the only means of transportation and social interaction, the automobile. Women and children were not foremost in the minds of the American developers, the author maintains, citing the NELCOME ABOARO TRAVEL C.I.R.

By contrast, he describes the residential environment in Vallingby as one which allows women who choose to work to do so and gives children greater freedom and independence. Shops and services are within walking distance, and the bicycle is the main vehicle for transportation within the community.

Citing the fact that 85 percent of American families now find the American dream of owning a new, single family home on a medium sized lot economically out of their reach, Mr. Popence wonders where Americans will live in the future. He says that for the first time there is a Prn Shop. Ctr. 921 2205

"CHAMBER MONTH"

In May, Focusing on regional planning and cooperation among the many communities represented in its membership, the Chamber of Commerce of the Princeton Area will celebrate May as ''Chamber of Commerce Month.

The community is invited to a special luncheon meeting at the Nassau Inn on Wednesday, 'Year 2000'' Planning Valley Regional Planning Commission. (Reservations, $5 each, may be made now through the Chamber, P.O. Box 486, Princeton, N.J.

a proclamation on Tuesday, both Princeton's mayors congratulated the Chamber for meeting "the stringent requirements of national accreditation" by the United States Chamber of Commerce. The local organization is the first in central New Jersey and only the fourth in the entire state, to be recognized in this fashion by the national body.

The proclamation points to the Chamber's role in "the development needs, both its Bay of Pigs, Vietnam and the byee Angolan civil war, this seems like a strangely old-fashioned, 19th century approach, which has not proved successful for us in this century. When one country invades another the response should be a quick summoning of the Security Council of the United Nations.

In this case, as in the case of country that has prepared Unity. In any case, surely planes should not be sent to one side in a military engagement, even if they our carry no arms or ammunition, but only military equipment. And surely such actions. without notice to Congress and without its participation, are too remininiscent of past Presidential intiatives to be welcomed today.

> Finally, all this being said, one must admit that other the actions of new Administration have been most welcome-outstandingly, the emphasis on human rights. Two years ago, I wrote an article for the New York Times and this was one of the points: "...we should con-centrate on a sincere concern for all people, and sensible actions to express that concern.

This is native to Americans and entirely understandable to us. It makes our foreign policy real and valuable. And perhaps for an Administration that has been in office so short that has been in office so short a time that is a considerable achievement.

Member F.D.I.C.

Foundation has awarded a Municipal Building. grant to The Lawrenceville School establishing an academic summer experience for outstanding high school juniors. To be known as the New Jersey Scholar Program, students of special ability, to give them a broadening summer academic experience and to provide a follow-up program during their senior year in high school.

A secondary goal is to recognize the selected students for their individual accomplishments. For the pilot program this summer, the program will draw its participants from seven counties (Burlington, Hun-terdon, Middlesex, Mercer, Monmouth, Morris, and Somerset). Eventually all counties in New Jersey will be represented.

The funding of the program is the ultimate outcome of a conversation, over a year ago, between Scott McVay, a former Princeton resident now Executive Director of the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation, and Bruce McClellan, Head Master of The Lawrenceville School. This year two students from each of the seven counties in the pilot program will attend a four-week session at Lawrenceville, from June 26 to July 22.

The course of studies pursued will come under the heading "The Greek Experience." An interdisciplinary course it will focus on the philosophy, political life, literature, science of the ancient Greek civilization. The stress will he on the meaning of new ideas the Greeks had about what it means to be a human being and a citizen.

There will also be some study of art and architecture using slides and visits to Princeton and New York, including a guided trip to the Metropolitan Museum of Art. The students will reside at Lawrenceville for the duration of the program, which is without cost to the par-ticipants. Dr. Carroll Moulton Assistant Professor of Classics at Princeton, and Dr. Wade Stephens, Chairman of the Language Department at Lawrenceville, will comprise the faculty. Other scholars will apprear as lecturers and discussion leaders

To be eligible for the 1977 program, students must be residents of the State of New Jersey and be currently enrolled in the eleventh grade of an approved secondary school (public, private, or perochial) in one of the seven counties.

Each secondary school may nominate one outstanding candidate, providing an extensive recommendation and a transcript of the nominee's academic and testing record Nominations from high school principals must be in the hands of the selection committee by April 15. The committee will narrow down the nominees to the final group by May 15. Personal interviews will be held during the last weeks in May, and the New Jersey Scholars will be selected by early June.

"FERNWOOD

Fougeres des Bois' (or something of the sort) should be the name of this enchanting house since it tooks, inside and out, like a "maison" straight from the French countryside! White stucco, dark wood frim rough plaster walls exposed beams, nooks, crannies, arched doorway etc. all contribute to the look. Entrance hall big stepdown living room with fireplace, dining room with built-in china cupboards, panelled library with fireplace, charming kitchen with eating space, panelled family room, 3 bedrooms 2 balhs, laundry/utility room make delightful family living space. Added practical assets are many, with the topper a highly rental studio apartment with separate entrance.

A screen tenced brick terrace overlooks a natural rockstrewn 21/2 acres and big woods. Our NEW LIGHT LISTING est tres charmant! Asking $120,000

DELIGHTFULLY DECEPTIVE

What appears on the outside to be a rather small, pretty, well-groomed house turns out to be a surprisingly spacious quite impressive and incredibly immaculate home! Flagstone-tloored foyer lovely large cathedral-ceilinged living room, tormal dining room. 4 bedrooms (or 3 and a study), 21% baths, utility/laundry room - all are pleasant and oristine. But the highlight of the house is the marvelous big combination kitchen and family room with tireplace and sliding glass doors to the handsome blick terrace.

As for the grounds - lush evergreens, flowering shrubs specimen frees, thick ground; overs are all part of the professional landscaping planned for easy maintenance and aesthelic pleasure. All in all it's hard to believe this superbly equipped fully air-conditioned conveniently located home has ever been lived in, but it has and happily.

CHOCK FULL OF CHARM

and shiny clean and neat as a pin from top to bottom, this 3 or possibly 4-bedroom Cape Cod has just about everything a family of 3 or 4 - or possibly 5 - could want! Living room with beamed ceiling and tireplace, kitchen, adjoining breakfast room with wet bar, 3 bedrooms, den or 4th bedroom, 2 baths, enclosed porch - all are delightful, but the highlight has to be the surprisingly spacious dining room opening on a greenhouse! There's a good basement too, with workshop space, laundry tub, and a possible olay area. All on a lovely low-care acre complete with brook and birdcover and backed by old woods and yet comfortably convenient to good shopping. This LIGHT listing is really a bright one at the low-for-Princeton asking price of.

AN APPEALING HOUSE

on a beautiful lot, in the nicest part of town! That's 149 Westcott Road Small - 3 bedrooms, 1½ baths, but with good sized living room, dining room and master bedroom - it is perfect for a couple or a one child family. Two tireplaces (one in the grade level family room), prefty brick terraces and mature landscaping. There aren't many like this around at

MORE THAN ONE SALE EVERY DAY!

(In every price range in every municipality in a 15-mile radius).

During the last 12 months, Henderson offices have sold, settled or contracted for the sale of at least one property every working day of the year.

That's why more house owners and more land owners have listed with us than any one else in the Princeton area...by far.

Think about it.

(609) 466-2550

Then please call us and we'll be glad to show you how we do it. And we guarantee our service in writing.

Hopewell Hopewell House Square Hopewell, New Jersey 08525 (609) 466-2550

PRINCETON TOWNSHIP HOME with 5 bedrooms and 3½ baths on an exceptionally beautiful, landscaped wooded low traffic street—conveniently near schools, shopping and the Community Pool. Central air, 2 fireplaces, extra insulation, real plaster walls, hardwood floors, storms & screens, flagstone patio, new wood deck, extensive and established well tended shrubbery, big living room with beautifully mantled fireplace, dining room, sun room off the dining room for plants and just sitting, panelled family room (opening on the patio & back yard) with its own fireplace, five bedrooms—2 of which have private baths, plus of course a central hall bath, and all in tip-top ready to move in condition.

Offered at $107,000

ONE OF PRINCETON'S most gracious houses...attributed to Steadman and moved from its original location to this lovely two acre lot with trees and formal gardens, not to mention more than twelve exquisite holly trees, near Carnegie Lake, on the West Windsor side. A modern wing was incorporated in the 40's that blends in beautifully with the original! Mouldings, panelling, mantels, floors, all seem the same vintage. The original two parlours form to make a warm family room with high ceilings and fireplace, the new wing provides a formal living room with elegant marble fireplace, fixtures and windows. A master bedroom suite with full bath and doors to the patio is nearby. Of course, a formal dining room, and super family kitchen completes the first floor. Bedrooms upstairs are in separate wings with two and a full bath in one part, and three with two baths in another. All new wiring, heating, of course, and a barn/garage completes this almost perfect picture for the family who wants to live in Princeton for the convenience and an older house for its charm and character. Offered at

A Banker Looks at Various Types of Con Games And Provides Some Rules on How to Beat Them

Con artists know tricks as old as the world, as old as human greed. They prey not only on little old ladies but on you and me, and they are stippery to catch because you and I are too sheepish to go to the police and say, "I was a

James Stewart 111, President of Princeton Bank and Trust, is a banker whose job it is to help people take care of their money. Con artists make him unhappy. He addressed the senior citizens at the YWCA's Friday Club not long ago, was impressed by their attention and intelligent questions and decided to spread what he knows to a wider audience.

"Anyone is a potential victim," he warns. "Con artists" stories are so stories are plausible, the artists themselves are so clever, and it comes across as completely believeable.

'Here's a very common one...and would you believe all these have names? Just like titles to a story."

PRINCE

Mohammad: Messenger of God. Despite the claims of the Washington, D.C. terrorists, 'Mohammad: Messenger of God" is respectful to and reverent of the story of the birth of the Moslem religion 1300 years ago.

Three hours long, the film is chronicled with the kind of bloated resources Hollywood once could afford to lavish on Judeo-Christian epics. Reportedly budgeted at $17 million, two versions were filmed simultaneously, one in English and one in Arabic, and financed by three oil-producing Arab countries.

The story of Moham-madism's growth from persecuted sect to one of the world's major religions has an inherent fascination. But although it is beautifully photographed and contains some rousing battle scenes and a dominating portrayal by Anthony Quinn as Mohammad's crusading warrior uncle (the title character can't be depicted on the screen) the story unfolds at a leaden pace.

There is one surprisingly welcome quality, too. Unlike Hollywood's all-or-none glorification of Mosaic law and Christianity, the film bends over backwards to show the common roots of the world's three major religions.

Drawings and watercolors by Ceglia reduce the land-scape to simplified, flowing forms. An economy of line in the sketches is translated into a reduction of form in the paintings, relating well the visual harmonies that obviously presented themselves to the artist. Ceglia uses space and color dramatically building with loose wash techniques.

At McCarter Theatre. The camera, in its early years, was basically a mechanical means for recording images. From the beginning, however, there were those who were able to go beyond the basic function of the new, miraculous device, and expand the photograph from a simple representation into a means of making an artistic statement.

Over the years, an everincreasing number of photographers have developed an almost limitless

ART

Over the years, the focus shifted from 18th century French art and for a time it was little regarded. It has again come into serious regard and the current display of French life drawings at the Princeton University Art Museum both reflects and contributes to the increased knowledge and understanding of this period.

The display consists of 39 drawings selected from the collection of Mathias Polakavits. The drawings are formal chalk works on white or tinted paper developed in the classical manner. They are all drawings of men, since female models were not allowed at the time. Although they are a superficially homogeneous collection, subtle stylistic differences, reflecting changes in French art thinking, can be seen.

The catalogue by James Henry Rubin does much to help appreciate and enjoy this collection. The text is clearly presented and accompanied by finely-printed reproductions of the drawings. Nuances that are not immediately apparent become clear and meaningful through the information that is supplied in the text.

At Gallery 100. An art trip to Italy provided source material and inspiration for the current display of paintings by Vincent Ceglia and lithographs by Marie Sturken. The summer journey, an art study group led by Ceglia, enabled the artists to represent the Tuscan land-scape, glimpses of Florence and Sienna and to relate some generalized impressions of the Italian experience.

Sturken has used architecture as her point of departure and combines representations of buildings, arches and monuments in combination with lettering and structural detail. She is able to use her medium, lithography, to its fullest by developing both painterly

A Totally New Concept...

Leitz Trinovid Binoculars

The Leitz Trinovids are that rare optical bird—truly new binoculars, both optically and in housing design. The heart of these new glasses is a special prism that the creators of the world-famous Leica Camera have perfected. It dramatically reduces binocular size and weight. Leitz alone has mastered its production for binocular use. They have produced an instrument which is not only pocket-sized but is without compromise in power or brilliance. No other binoculars look like Trinovids; no others perform like them.

Compare the slim silhouette of the Trinovid with the bulk and weight of older conventional glasses. Compare the focusing too. The Trinovids are focused by the internal movement of the optical elements. The optics of the Trinovid are completely sealed within the housing. They are dustproof and weatherproof. All Trinovid models have wide-field eyepieces providing a panoramic view. The superb correction of the Leitz optics provides unsurpassed brillance and clarity of image. As a final touch of elegance each of the six models is small enough to slip into a pocket.

Continued from preceding page range of expressive possibilities and technical variety. Camera function has been expanded to include the scientific notation, political statements, literary statements, literary presentations, and social commentary. Still life, portraiture, abstractions and design have all been dealt with through the cameras lens.

A fair sampling of the possibilities of the medium can be found at the Princeton Art Association's first Juried Photography Display at McCarter. The competition has happily drawn a collection of photographs that are not only a most agreeable viewing experience but do much to represent the range of expressive and technical uses of the camera.

Works that are witty, some that are vogueish and many that are simply pleasant representation are displayed together with prints that make highly individual, creative statements. Subjects range from somebody's child to a photomicrograph and, within the two extremes, offer a fair survey of camera style.

At Grovers Mlli Graphics. Watercolor paintings by Susan Swartz focus on the landscape. Scenery and animal life are realistically portrayed in great detail. The artist demonstrates great technical control in the collection applying her skill to develop faithful renderings of her

At The Loft. Watercolor and acrylic landscapes by Dick Jensen and Betty Whelan offer two different approaches to realism. Jensen uses acrylics for a hyper-realistic approach, creating form from detail. Whelan applies her paint in traditional fashion using a naturalistic palette in a series of landscapes and florals.

You're not being dishonest, just a LITTLE crooked, so you go ahead.'

"Double Trouble." The woman victim, in restaurant, tells the manager her purse is missing. When she gets home, the telephone rings. It's the con artist, posing as the "manager." He found her purse, but the money is gone and he suspects a waiter.

The "manager" invites the woman and everybody in her family to the restaurant, "on the house," but asks her not to tell the waiter because they think he's padding the bill.

You accept this gracious invitation. While you're out, a truck pulls in to your driveway and the con artists clean out your house.

Not only that, you have to pay the restaurant bill.

"If this, or a similar incident, happens to you," advises Mr. Stewart, "call the restaurant back first and to the police, and allow them check it out with the real to set the trap so it can be restaurant back first and

Rules for Voting in State Primaries

You must be registered as either a Republican or a Democrat in order to vote in the party primaries on June 7, and you must make sure that party designation is registered by Monday, April 18.

If you've always voted as an independent and have no party designation next to your name on the voting rolls, but would like to vote in the primaries of either party, you must make that party declaration by April 18. You can't do it at the polis on June 7

If you switched from one party to another to vote in a primary, no matter how many years ago, you must make sure by April 18 that you are registered in the party you want to vote in THIS YEAR.

For example, if you voted in the 1976 Democratic primary and want to vote in the Republican primary this year, you must change by April 18. A "declaration of party affiliation" card is available in any municipal building. Fill it out and leave it with the municipal clerk, or mail it to the County Board of Elections. If you can't remember which party you're affiliated with, ask your municipal clerk to look it up for you, or ask the committeeman or committeewoman in your district. You can also call the County Board of Elections.

The courses, available in 25 languages, are ideal for anyone traveling abroad for business or pleasure.

The Princeton Language Group, Inc., in existence since 1973, is a cooperative organization of foreign born teachers, all of whom speak their native language fluently. The classes are geared to meet the individual needs of students, such as the two persons who were traveling to Brazil and wanted to gain a general idea of the language and culture in the five weeks before they left.

All classes are held in the instructors' homes in relaxed and informal surroundings. The teachers emphasize conversation and use textbooks and visual aids to supplement the material. The classes are private or semiprivate with a maximum of four students.

Along with the intensive courses, the PLG also has a tutoring service for high school and college students which will be graded at the request of the school. At present, the PLG offers the following languages: Arabic, Chinese, Czech, Danish, Dutch, Finnish, French, German, Greek (ancient and modern), Hebrew, Hindi, Hungarian, Italian, Japanese, Korean, Latin, Norwegian, Persian, Polish, Portuguese, Russian, Slovak, Spanish, and Swedish.

SPORTS FANS! Brought to you

By John Bernard Here's an oddity about pitcher Mark (The Bird) Fidrych, who was the Rookie of the Year last season in the American League ... Did you know Fidrych actually lost more games than he won as a pitcher in his senior year on his high school baseball team! ... Не went from a losing pitcher in high school to a fantastically successful pitcher in the major leagues!

Did you know for this 1977 baseball season. there аге proximately 120 players in the big leagues making $100,000 or more ... Not too many years ago, there were just a few players making $100,000.

We saw the following sports quiz in another publication and we thought it was interesting, so we'd like to pass it along to you ... In which sports are the playing fields or areas the following lengths? ... (A) from 3 to 4 miles ... (B) 78 feet ... (C) 9 feet

... (D) 62 (eet, 101/8) inches? ... The answers ... (A) golf ... (B) tennis (C) table tennis ... (D) bowling.

1 bet you didn't know ... that smoke kills most people who die in a fire in their home. An automatic smoke detector is a must for every home. I have one. Do you?

spring sports weekend of the season will provide a wide year. variety of choices for the At interested spectator. Highlighting Saturday's action will be a lacrosse doubleheader to be played in Palmer Stadium, while six crew races and a tennis match are also on tap.

It has been a number of years since lacrosse last took over the Stadium. Once, some 30 years ago, the turf there was the site of an unruly demonstration when Johns Hopkins was playing the Tigers and its 100-piece band was the target of beer cans brought to the game by hundreds of Princeton undergraduates just back from the war. The Blue Jays' musicians were marching with a dozen or so Confederate flags as their banners, and the Yankee bred home forces found the french horns parading below them an inviting target.

hoping for a resurgence to its bright era of a decade and more ago, the Navy game on Saturday will be staged in the Stadium. Face-off is at 2:30; it will be preceded at noon by a contest between the Gilman School of Baltimore, cradle of many a future college star, and Montclair High School.

Navy's visit to the Stadium will provide twin goals for the Tigers' new lacrosse coach, Mike Hanna. Not only will he be hopeful that the excellent seating facilities will draw a larger-than-normal crowd to the game, but he will be particularly gratified if his team upsets the midshipmen. For five years before he came here to succeed Art Robinson following the retirement, Hanna was the assistant coach at Annapolis.

Princeton will need greater defensive skill than it has shown to date if it is to edge Navy, as it did last, 15-14, in 1975. Against two of the nation's top teams, the Orange and Black has yielded 13 goals to Maryland and 15 to Johns

The Tigers held a welcome and unexpected 7-6 half-time over Hopkins Baltimore Saturday, but the home team made sure when play resumed that there would be no upset. For all of the third period and half-way through the last, the Blue Jays held the visitors scoreless while adding half a dozen goals to their own total. It was a 15-10 final.

Dave Tickner, Wick Sollers and Carl Nissen each had two goals apiece for Princeton. Nissen is a freshman.

Six Crews to Row. The nnual Rutgers-Princeton regatta for the Logg Cup will be climaxed at 4:30 when the two varsities compete on Carnegie Lake. Coach Pete Sparhawk's shell will seek to continue its recent success against the Scarlet, which it defeated last spring by three-

Saturday, April 9 Yale at Penn (2) Brown at Columbia (2)

The Tigers kept hammering away in a manner rarely seen on Clarke Field, or on its long-lived predecessor on Olden Street. By the end of the sixth, it was 11-2, largely on the strength of:

 A pair of doubles by Kurylak, one to the base of the 385-foot sign, another to the sign that read 410 feet.

Doubleheader Postponed. Saturday's rain put the Columbia doubleheader over until Sunday, and by the time it had ended in steadily gathering dusk, Princeton had put itself in a triple tie for top spot with the Lions and Navy. The two contests were extremely close, the Tigers earning the split because their last pitcher in relief was better than the visitors'.

A two-run throwing error in the first by shortstop Dennis Spates provided Columbia with its margin in the opener, the low toss coming with the bases loaded and everyone moving on a 3-2 count. The Lions stayed ahead throughout the contest, junior left-hander Matt Gorman yielding all the runs and freshman Mark Cascia working three strong innings in relief.

By all rights, the contest should have been tied at the end of the last inning: Kurylak detonated a shot 15 feet inside the left field foul line that virtually everyone, including the Columbia outfielder, felt had cleared the fence. The umpires, however, ruled that it had bounced over and confined Kurylak to second base, where he was stranded.

In the night cap, senior right-hander Mike O-Brien came up with a fast ball that had not graced his career previously, and struck out 11 batters in six innings. When he tired in the dropping temperature, Doug Lorentz replaced him, ran into a peck of trouble and freshman John Baker came on to get the final two outs. By that time, however, Columbia had drawn even at 6-all.

Pecka lined his third hit of the game to center with one away in the last of the seventh, moved up on a walk to Kish and both runners advanced when a third strike to Sullivan bounced off the catcher's chest. Spates was walked intentionally to fill the bases and the second pitch to catcher Rod Shepard plunked the Tiger freshman between the blades. The run forced in gave the Tigers a 7-6 victory and a firm spot from which to make a run for the 1977 league title.

While many players have been ramming out base hits in solid fashion, the productivity of Vic Kurylak is truly eyecatching. He was 3 for 5 against Penn, his two doubles and a homer worth three RBIs. In the two Columbia games, he had two more doubles and another homer, 4 hits in 8 at bats and only one run batted in because no one was on base when he got his hits. He has already tied the Princeton record for most extra base hits in a game and is a shoo-in to set new marks for most doubles, homers and extra bases if anything close .000 to this sort of cannonading continues.

Earlier last week, Princeton lost its unbeaten status when it was rather thoroughly dominated by Fordham in New York, 11 to 7. Only four runs in the last two innings kept the losers close.

Lorenz was the starting and beaten pitcher, failing to last through four innings. Freshman Ted Frangos pinch-hit a two-run homer in the ninth. It was his second of the season.

At South Orange Monday, a strong Seton Hall team hammered out an 8-1 triumph over the Tigers, who managed just seven scattered hits. Baker was no worse off than 3-1 in the seventh when the Down 1-0 against Cinnaminson, PHS tied it at 1, led 3-1 at the half and 4-2 after three periods. The Little Tiger attack generated five goals as veterans Morgan Mohrman and Matt Adriance each scored twice while Jamie Lesher added a single tally and two assists.

Circullo also reported that he was pleased to see some scoring from his midfield which he is rebuilding this season. Middies Chris Cahill and Pierre Muri each scored once and Doug Firstenberg and Johnny Morris had

However, the best day for anyone on the PHS team, Circullo stated, belonged to goalie Robert Willis, who had 12 saves. "He was excellent in the goal. Within those 12 saves, there is no question that he stopped a few goals," said

On the minus side, Circullo said that he was not pleased MAZUR'S defense nor the tendency to keep the ball on the ground. "I didn't want to see that with the PHS stick handling on

"On the ground," he commented, "there is a 50-50 chance who picks up the ball; in the air, it can be passed and moved more accurately.'

Despite the mistakes and occasional first-game tightness, Cirullo agreed that it is always nice to win that first game of the season. In addition, he said that he was able to play 25 of the 27 players who made the trip and "got a chance to look at a few people."

Joining the team in the win column was the PHS jayvee squad which won, 5-3. It was the first win as a coach for Dave Bellemore.

"He was excited about that," Cirullo said. "He should be; the jayvees did a good job.

MANY GONE, SOME BACK For PDS Lacrosse Team. Princeton Day lacrosse coach Bob Krueger has no trouble recalling the names of his players, now graduated, who helped last year's team compile a 13-2 mark and win the state championship.

All-state aelections Doc O'Connor on attack, Rich Olsson in the goal, defensemen Jay Trubee and John Segal, and midfielders Bill Erdman, Tom Moore and Steve Judge are all gone. But don't think for a moment, that Krueger's cupboard is bare. He has enough talent returning to insure another fine

On attack, Mark Zawadsky, the league's high acorer last year will return, as will Peter Buck and John Sweeney. Buck and Sweeney and Skip Guerin will alternate in the other two attack spots.

The first midfield will be anchored by Rob Oisson, the league's nomination for all-American honors last year. Also returning will be John Haraldson, a starter last year, while the third spot will go to John Rodgers or Tom Gates.

A second midfield will be composed of freshman Tim Murdock, Tim Brush, who filled in for Steve Judge most of last year, and Kent Wilkinson, a transfer student Princeton High. Wilkinson is hampered by a pulled groin muscle at the moment. A trio of juniors, Jay Itzkowitz, Will Kain and Wells Collifleet, will give Krueger a third midfield line

Defense will hold the key this year. If the new players up from the jayvees develop rapidly, the attack and rapidly, the attack and midfield will have no problem carrying their part of the load. Lucky Pine will be in the goal. Defensemen include Jim Jeffers, who subbed for Segal and Trubee last year, Doug Fine, Don Gips, and Burr Stoner, who has never played lacrosse before, but is a fine athlete and should pick the game up quickly, according to Krueger.

Krueger commented that his main task will be to get the team playing as a unit. Many of the boys have not played beside one another before, and it's important to learn how

HUN NINE VS. EWING

Here Thursday. The Hun Pennington, 737-0810. School baseball team will play host to Ewing Thursday afternoon at 3 and then tangle with rival Princeton Day School on Monday at 4 at the PDS field.

For the first few games, coach Bill McQuade reports that he plans to split the pitching assignment between his two top starters, senior Bob Kwiatoski and junior Fred Wollman,

"It's something I've never done before but neither is ready to pitch a full game," he

Hun managed to play two scrimmage contests before the start of the season. The first, against Steinert is one McQuade said that he doesn't even like to think about. 'They tore us up.'

The Spartans scored a dozen runs while shutting out Hun, limiting the Red and Black to one hit. "We played terrible baseball," said McQuade.

Against Wardlaw, however, Hun displayed a 180-degree turn. It banged out 13 hits three by Dave Dudek - played excellent defense and walked off the field with a 12-2 decision. Kwiatoski and Wollman limited Wardlaw to three hits.

NEW SEASON AT HAND

For Soccer Club. The spring program of The Princeton Soccer Club begins Saturday for more than 600 boys and girls from Princeton and surrounding area. They have been divided into five leagues according to age and ability and assigned to teams sponsored by Princeton business firms.

There are approximately 40 firms which have agreed to sponsor teams this year and the club anticipates a need for others as it expands. The Princeton Soccer Club also offers a scholarship program which is dependent on outside sources of support. Those interested in either of these programs can call the Club at 921-1024 or 924-5613.
